

ABSTRACT

According to one embodiment, a computer system is disclosed. The computer system includes a compressor/decompressor (codec), and an integrity agent. The integrity agent verifies the authenticity of one or more functions utilized by the codec to assist in the decompression of received content.

Patented by the U.S. Patent and Trademark Office